

Have you ever felt frustration over what to do for the hungry in our midst? Even in our abundant Delaware Valley community there are 1 million hungry people. And thanks to the Del. Val. Garden "Hope for the Harvest" there's a chance for the rest of us who live in this community to do something real, to actually use our hands, to help.

By creating small gardens and giving the food to those in need we can effectively combat hunger in our neighborhoods. When we at Pebble Garden witnessed what Hope was doing, we had a light bulb moment that changed everything. We've tended our garden for 4 years and now it seems that was just preparation for this new hunger initiative.

Join with us by volunteering to garden for a day, or donate seeds, plants, tools, or funds to help feed the hungry in our neighborhoods. Thank you.

"If you have the soul of a gardener...the unassuming wonder of what it accomplishes fills you with a kind of faith...if anything so simple, so humble, can do so much, there is hope for man."
--Ruth Stout

Contact:

*Pebble Hill Church
320 Edison Furlong Rd.
Doylestown, Pa 18901
www.pebblehillchurch.org*

Visit us on Facebook

*Send an email from our webpage:
[http://pebblehillchurch.org/
community-organic-garden.htm](http://pebblehillchurch.org/community-organic-garden.htm)*

Pebble Community Organic Garden

